Instrumentation Measurement and Analysis

4th Edition

The basic structure of fourth edition encompasses three sections namely, instrumentation principles, measurement techniques and data analysis. These sections have been presented in the form which is lucid and easily comprehensible to the students. In fact, it covers the syllabi of most courses in instrumentation/experimental methods for various undergraduate and postgraduate disciplines comprising these three aspects.

The fourth edition includes the following new features:

- ❖ A new chapter on Mechatronics and Applications
- ❖ Content redesigned around outcome based learning
- ❖ Emphasis on the measurement standards and calibration methods
- ❖ Inclusion of special topics on current applications in the area of condition monitoring and signature analysis in machines, in process measurements, biomedical and environmental air pollution measurements
